Combating Technological and Future Threats

Micah Waldstein

Director of Product Management

Oxalis

Abstract:

Combating technology and future threats is nothing new to the Sea Service community. Shipyards need to prepare and conquer challenges such as: going paperless in a high-compliant environment, digitizing ship repair and internal systems, and dealing with ever-changing mobile and security threats.

Overcome these challenges with not only the right tools but the right team. Hear three case studies in how leading yards have embraced these challenges and improved efficiency without sacrificing security.

Oxalis is a team of expert high-compliance technology solutions consultants and we have the tools and experience to get the job done right the first time. We've built and created products that save 10,000+ hours per year in your operations and improve on-time delivery across the board.
